

What do I want to learn or understand better?

Working in an agile way has been a new experience for me and I hope to continue to learn more about it and apply it more in the future. I have learned the importance of having a detailed project scope and how it can make it easier to achieve the desired result. I have also learned how following an agile practice can bring value to the customer and stakeholders.

How can I help someone else, or the entire team, to learn something new?

Write or talk to the team when I have found something that I feel could benefit us all and the project. Try to explain if someone has any questions and make sure that person has understood what I meant.

What is my contribution towards the team's application of scrum?

It has been similar to previous weeks: going through finished user stories and writing new user stories during the sprint review. Since we had one sprint left, we decided to focus on fixing as many bugs as possible rather than adding new functionality to the website.

What is my contribution towards the team's deliveries?

This week I have mostly focused on documenting files. I also added some CSS to the portion buttons. We started focusing more on documentation later in the project but I feel like it can be a good habit to write comments as soon as an implementation has been done, as other team members can read them and perhaps gain value from them. However, we have answered questions about each other's code in meetings.
