

This week Malte and I made the website more mobile-friendly by adding different version of the site when you are on mobile. The mobile version only either display the database or the itembox. There is also a button for switching between the 2.